

INTERESTING AND VIGOROUS AT 92

The oldest living volunteer soldier in America, Col. W. O. Clark, of Drytown, California, is an Odgen visitor. Col. Clark is an uncle of Dr. Ezra Rich's mother, and although 92 years of age, is still hale and hearty and retains with wonderful clearness of mind, events of American history of which few of today know other than that which is furnished by history.

His first visit to Odgen was 59 years ago. At that time he was on his way to California.

Col. Clark is a veteran of the Black Hawk war of 1832, and has many things of interest to relate in connection with that famous struggle.

"This history of the Black Hawk war, as written today," said Col. Clark, "is incomplete, the details being insufficiently treated and many mistakes being made in names and dates. I was 16 years of age when the war broke out and was living 40 miles west of Chicago when the first warning was given of prospective trouble with the Indians. I appeared with the son of the chief who gave me warning."

"The Indian brave said that the Indians had held a conference east of the Mississippi and had planned a general raid on the white settlers. There were about 50 Indians to every white settler then, and when war broke out the Indians had all the best of it."

In 1832, Clark, while working 40 miles west of Chicago plowing and spring planting, saw women and children fleeing in terror and learned that the Indians were approaching in force in the west, killing all whites that fell into their hands.

"We two boys hitched up a wagon and took some fugitives to what is now called Plainfield, where they took refuge in a stockade."

Ammunition was scarce and we were told to shoot at the white of their eyes."

"At this time an aged Dunkard preacher came into the stockade and announced that he was going down the Mississippi river to Ottawa in a boat. His long white hair was afterwards found floating from the top of a long pole."

"The refugees at Plainfield soon afterwards took refuge in Fort Dearborn. Soon after the state and federal troops were in the field against the Indians under General Scott who forced the savages to make peace terms."

Mr. Clark thought that the cause of the outbreak was largely due to the sale of whiskey to the Indians.

ONE OF TRAIN ROBBERS HELD.—Muskogee, June 19.—One of the trio of hold-up men in the alleged hold-up of a freight train crew at Bragg, Okla., yesterday, when Officer Kirk was killed, was brought here today and placed in jail as a precaution against lynching at the hands of Kirk's friends. The man, who is known as Paul Williams, alias Mills, has three bullet wounds in his breast and arm.

HE BLAMES THE ODGEN "BOOZE."—For fear that the public might be apprised of what is transpiring in the city, the police department assumed complete censorship Friday of a most sensational discovery which was made in the city hall Friday morning by Col. Nelson, and which occupied the attention of the officers for the greater part of the day.

Upon making the rounds of the toilet rooms of the city hall, Friday morning, Col. Nelson discovered in the public lavatory which connects with the outside and is left open during the night, evidences of a crime having been committed during the night, the floor of the compartment being deluged with blood, which had apparently dripped from a height and had splashed upon the walls and partitions near the baseboards. A great pool of clotted blood was located near the door and bloody fingerprints were traceable upon one of the basins.

Confident that a crime had been committed, the police and sanitary department were notified and began an investigation which resulted about 6 o'clock that evening in the discovery of a stranger, by the name of John C. Waters, suffering with a badly cut throat. It then developed that the man had attempted to commit suicide by slashing his throat with a razor during a moment of drunken despondency. After cutting a great gash in his neck, which narrowly missed the jugular vein, Waters lost heart in the matter, the pain and loss of blood having sobered him somewhat, and he then made an effort to secure assistance and medical attention.

Waters is now in the city jail with his neck swathed in bandages and he vows solemnly that it will be many months before he takes another drink. "I am a mind from Nevada and have been drinking around town here for some time, losing my money at various roulette wheels, gradually becoming despondent over my condition. Thursday night I lost most of my remaining money in a gambling house in the city and began drinking harder than ever. I finally lost control of myself and in a fit of despair went over to the city hall lavatory and made a slash at my throat with a razor. The skin on my neck was so d—n tough, however, that I guess I didn't get in far enough. I dropped the razor into the sink and tried to get out of the door. I must have fainted about that time, for when I came to I was still bleeding profusely. In the meantime the pain and loss of blood had sobered me sufficiently so that I went into the lavatory and then up the stairs. I never tried the suicide route before and I will not try it again, but a man who drinks Odgen booze is apt to do anything."

SALOON IS ROBBED OF SOME RARE COINS

The saloon of Joseph Zimmerman at Brigham City was entered by burglars Friday and a rare collection of valuable coins, valued at from $1,500 to $2,000, was stolen almost in its entirety. The saloon was entered through the rear door and the robbery was not discovered until an early hour this morning.

No clue to the thieves has been discovered as yet, but an elaborate description of the valuable coins stolen has been sent Sheriff Wilson and other officers throughout the west, and the thieves may be gathered in at any time if they attempt to dispose of the plunder stolen.

QUARTZ AND PLACER ARE RUNNING NECK AND NECK

Manhattan, Nev., June 18.—The quartz and placer mines of Manhattan are, to use a popular term, "running neck and neck" with each other as history-makers for the camp. Every week each has its page of good news to record, and it would seem that the real activity in the new Klondike is only beginning. Now that the high-tension power line has reached the camp and is in operation, it will cause renewed activity all along the main gulch, where are located the rich placer fields, and also over the hills in every direction, where the quartz mines are busy sending out their riches. The arrival of the power will mean that a dozen more placer properties, which have been waiting for the "juice" to be turned on, will start work at once, and the placer and quartz equipments all in place and ready.

Friday was a lucky day for the gulch, for, before the sun had set over the distant hills, it had witnessed the finding of the largest nugget yet uncovered in the placer district. The nugget in question weighed 56 pennyweights and measures 3 1/2 inches long, 2 1/2 inches wide and one-half an inch thick. The nugget was about two-thirds gold and one-third of a reddish-brown quartz, and is valued at about $45. The nugget was found on the Moore-Childs place, near the scene where the original placer discovery in the camp, together with a smaller one, worth about $6, the latter having in some manner passed from the sluices to the tailing dump, where it was picked up. Friday was a good day all around for the lucky lads who are cleaning up the evening gale. They 8 ounces and 9 pennyweights of amalgam and 4 ounces of nuggets, in addition to the two nuggets before mentioned.

A big thing for the placers will be the installation of a pneumatic dredger in the gulch, which will have a capacity of from 500 to 1,000 yards of gravel every twenty-four hours. The machine will be installed by the Pneumatic Dredger company of Sacramento, and the owners state that within from twenty minutes to half an hour from the time the dredger is turned on, the machine will have reached bed-rock, a distance of about 60 feet. The dredger will arrive in the camp this week and will be installed on the "dry-wash" Wilson lease on the September 1st, where it will be given a thorough test. The dredger is turned on what on the principle of a suction carpet cleaner. It consists of a twelve-inch casing, shaped like a stove pipe. Inside of it is a small pipe carrying air to the end in the ground, the air having a pressure of twenty pounds to the square inch. The air forces everything that is loose and not to large to come up through the casing into the sluice boxes. About two miners' inches of water are required to loosen the material. It is practically a plan of excavating and hoisting dirt by air pressure. It cleans the bedrock perfectly, better than could be done with a broom, taking every particle out of the crevices. The boulders, which are not wanted, it leaves, but it takes all the loose material from them, leaving them perfectly clean. It will sink six feet in one hour, and many places in twenty minutes, handling 500 tons of dirt a day.

INSTANT DEATH OF RALPH HURST NEAR BEAVER.—Beaver, Beaver Co., June 17.—This morning at 6 o'clock the body of Ralph Hurst, a young man of this city, was found dead at the dam of the Beaver River Power company, where he was employed. About 2:30 a. m. an avalanche of rocks fell from the side of the mountain, and one of them passed through the tent in which the young man was sleeping with a companion, Vernon Valentini. Ralph was struck on the head, and it is supposed was instantly killed. The other young man was also struck on the head, and while he was unconscious some hours, no serious consequences appear to have resulted, and the young man is around again.

Ralph Rankin Hurst is the son of William and Martha Miller Hurst, and was born in Greenville, Beaver county, Utah, January 7, 1892, and was possessed of superior intellectual abilities. He passed the grade of the district school at an early age, and also completed a high school course, graduating with honor at the close of last season at the Beaver academy. He had made arrangements to enter a Denver school of civil engineering, and was enthusiastic in his studies.

RYAN SAVES HIS GUIDE FROM INVOLUNTARY DUCKING.—Muskogee, Mich., June 19.—While angling for bass from a rowboat on Muskogee lake, William J. Bryan saved his guide, John Connors of this city, from an involuntary ducking.

Mr. Bryan was in the city to deliver a lecture, and was the guest of a party of leading business men on a fishing trip.

Connors lost his balance and was half overboard when Mr. Bryan seized him around the waist and pulled him back into the boat. A twenty-two-pound pike, the second largest caught this season, rewarded Mr. Bryan's piscatorial efforts.

Receipt That Cures Weak Men—Free

Send Name and Address Today—You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, falling memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription, free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope, to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men, and I am convinced it is the surest and most effective for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence, so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop dragging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest-acting, restorative, unbuilding, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and, sure, himself at home quickly and quietly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 4120 Luck Bldg., Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid receipt, free of charge.

MINING NEWS OF UTAH And Other Western States

CON. MERCUR BUILDS ITS OWN LIME KILN

Mercer, June 19.—At the Consolidated Mercer Gold Mines company's lime kiln everything is progressing nicely. The lime bed is now furnishing the best rock it has ever furnished since it was opened, and this work is affording considerable of a saving to the company. The lime rock after being burned in the kiln, is free to slack as it is possible to obtain. The kiln, which is another of the economical features projected by George H. Dorn, general manager of the company, is burning lime at the rate of three and a half tons a day. It requires seven tons of rock to obtain three and a half tons of lime.

The rock is drilled with a Burley machine. Holes are made from 10 to 12 feet in depth, each hole breaking an average of 30 to 40 tons of lime rock. The rock is broken with double hand hammers in places about the size of a teacup. These are charged into the kiln, the leverage charge being about 800 pounds of coal to a ton of lime rock.

The quarry is so situated that the rock is run into a car over the trestle and dumped into the kiln. At the bottom of the kiln is a large coal bin with a capacity of 40 tons. It is built alongside of the Salt Lake & Mercer railroad track, making it an easy matter to unload the coal into the bin. A hoist pulls the coal up to the top of the kiln where it is put in.

When the lime is drawn out of the kiln it is loaded into a four and a half ton car and then run into the mill. A large storage bin has been built at the mill, and it has a capacity of 500 tons.

A present two men at the kiln, working under Superintendent Baker, are able to lay up a store for the winter.

The Utah-Nevada Mines and Milling company, which has leased the dumps at the Sacramento mine, is getting some good work out of its new mill, it is said. Although the savings as yet have not come up to what was expected, it is believed that as soon as the mill is in good working order a good-sized fortune will be taken out.

General Manager George H. Dorn of the Consolidated Mercer General Mine Foreman James Quirk and C. L. Prebble drove over to West Dip, now a deserted camp, June 17, with the intention of looking over the ground of the Daisy. It is believed that there is a great deal of wealth in the tallings on the dumps at West Dip, and that there will be something doing there shortly.

DYING FROM TETANUS.—With nerves deadened from repeated injections of morphine, William L. White, 51 years of age, a well-known cattlemen of Salt Lake, lies in a comatose condition at the home of his brother, John H. White, No. 266 North Second West street, suffering from tetanus, the result of an accident sustained ten days ago.

It is but a question of a few hours, unless his be one of the very rare cases, until the final convulsions occur and death results, say the physicians in attendance.

The attack of a wild steer at Hepworth's stock yard at North Ogden caused injuries to Mr. White which later developed into lockjaw. He was sitting on a fence, presumably out of reach of the infuriated animal, when suddenly the steer jumped straight at him, striking him in the forehead and knocking him to the ground inside the fence. One hand was caught between the falling body of the steer and the fence and badly crushed. The injuries at that time were not thought to be of a serious nature.

Mr. White was taken to the home of his brother and given medical attention, and in a few days had so far recovered as to be able to walk about. Wednesday afternoon he developed alarming symptoms, and yesterday morning the physicians in attendance pronounced the disease tetanus. Immediately a supply of antitoxin was obtained and 15,000 units injected, 3,000 units at one injection and 12,000 at another.

A message has been sent to his wife and children, who are in Idaho.

TINTIC ORE SHIPMENTS.—The following were the ore shipments from the Tintic district for the week ending Friday night: Sioux Con-

& Milling company, the capitalization being 500,000 shares, par value $1 each. There are 250,000 shares in the treasury. The company owns six claims and will get to work on them at once. Enough work has been done on these claims to demonstrate their value, the development accomplished to date disclosing four strong veins, the largest being from four to six feet in width. The formation is identical with the Century and Susana, and the group is exactly in line for the same resources.

In speaking of the camp Dr. Brownfield said:

"The Century is worthy of better things. Never in the history of the property has there been as large a tonnage as now exists, and the ore is of a better grade than it has been known to be in the past. The company has its own mill, and with diligent management should be more successful than it has ever been. There are several active and achieving propositions in the camp in addition to those mentioned. The Planetary and Brooklyn both have exceptionally fine showings. Park valley is coming to the front, and it is bound to be a fine producing section."

BLASTS BREAK GLASS.—Salt Lake, June 19.—Those who were in the vicinity of Main street and South Temple last evening between 6 and 7 o'clock were surprised at several very loud reports from the old Deseret News corner, followed by dense clouds of dust. It was thought at the time that that was about all that followed the attempt of Contractor Showell's men to blow down the walls of the old building with powder. It developed, this morning, however, that a number of missiles flew about the corner, marring the lives of pedestrians and injuring property. One rock weighing fully 10 pounds was blown against the O. S. W. railroad bridge yesterday, and it was feared that it would result there is a broken skylight and several broken windows. A rock pierced the window shade and made a big hole in the two large lights of glass owing to the bottom sash being raised. Several small rocks also fell on North Main street.

YOUNG BOY DROWNED IN LITTLE BEAR RIVER.—Wellsville, Utah, June 19.—Thomas B. Jones, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jones of this city, was drowned in Little Bear river near the O. S. W. railroad bridge yesterday, on his tenth birthday. It appears that the boy in company with other boys was attempting to cross the river when he accidentally fell in and was drowned. Up to 9 o'clock today the body had not been recovered. To make it this sad, the father is out in the western part of Beaver county and the family are unable to locate him at present.

S.S.S. REMOVES S.S.S. BLOOD HUMORS

Every pore and gland of the skin is employed in the necessary work of preserving its smooth, even texture, softening and cleansing it, and regulating the temperature of our bodies. This is done by an evaporation through each tiny outlet, which goes on continually day and night. When the blood becomes infected with humors and acids a certain percentage of these impurities also pass off with the natural evaporation, and, their sour, fiery nature irritates and inflames the skin, and dries up its natural oils, causing pimples, boils, pustules or some itching rash, or hard, scaly skin affection. S.S.S. cures skin troubles of every kind by nourishing the acid and removing the humors from the blood. S.S.S. cools the acid-heated circulation, builds it up to its normal strength and thickness, multiplies its nutritious, red corpuscles and enriches it in every way. Then the skin, instead of being irritated and diseased by the exuding acid matter, is nourished, soothed and softened by this cooling, healthy stream of blood. S.S.S., the greatest of blood purifiers, expels all foreign matter and surely cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum and all other diseases and affections of the skin. It removes pimples, blackheads, and other unsightly blemishes from the skin and assists in restoring a good complexion. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice desired free to all who write.
